

From: Rugxulo rugxulo@gmail.com
Subject: Re: FDNET
Date: November 12, 2021 at 12:25 PM
To: Jerome Shidel jerome@shidel.net

R

Any license is fine with me: GPLv1+ would probably be more universal than generic "public domain" (my original intent). Feel free to relicense as needed. Viva la FreeDOS!

On Fri, Nov 12, 2021 at 11:06 AM Jerome Shidel <Jerome@shidel.net> wrote:

We are bring FDNET back in 1.3-RC5. As I've mentioned on several occasions, the network startup batch file in FDNET is based on your MetaDOS CONNECT file. That file was/is released under GPLv2. To prevent any additional confusion and possible perceived conflicts, I'd like to relax the license for FDNET.BAT itself to GPLv1 or later. That would make it compatible with any GPL versions. I cannot really do that without your consent.

If you are fine with that license change, please let me know. I would then probably include your consent email in a readme, changelog or something similar.

If it is unacceptable to you that I loosen the license restrictions, then I obviously won't do it.

Either way...

Thanks

:-)